Choose an option below that fits your budget and venue space

Option One: Solo Sax With Backing Tracks

Bill Shreeve performing on soprano, alto and tenor sax with the use of a small P.A. system and prerecorded backing tracks. It's your compact and economical way to offer a live jazz performance of classic and contemporary jazz standards.

Option Two: Jazz Duo

Saxophonist Bill Shreeve teams up with a keyboardist playing piano and key bass. The keyboardist simultaneously plays key bass as well as piano, so with the use of a drum machine, you get the sounds of a bass player and drummer to make the duo sound like four musicians instead of two! The Bill Shreeve Duo is far more colorful and entertaining than a solo pianist or guitar, but not much more expensive.

Option Three: Jazz Trio or Power Trio

Add a live drummer or bass player to the duo and you have the Bill Shreeve Trio. The Power Trio adds vocals to the mix. Bill's drummer just happens to be a great vocalist as well, so in just three pieces (sax/flute, keys/key bass, drums/vocal), you have all the elements of a 5 piece band! It's a talent packed trio and an amazing value.

Option Four: Jazz Quartet

With the quartet, all the important elements of a great jazz group are represented. Sax, keys, bass and drums. The Bill Shreeve Quartet has a deep repertoire from classic to contemporary jazz and pop, and offers dynamic levels from background to concerts.

Option Five: Jazz Quintet

Add another horn to the mix (trombone, trumpet, or sax), and you have the Bill Shreeve Quintet. From unique original compositions to jazz standards, from contemporary to classic styles featuring intricate arrangements for two horns, Bill Shreeve brings a world-class music experience to your clientele.
